Dreamweaver templates reddit

I have no experience with HTML however I can read and write Python and HTML seems even easier. Basically, it will be a place to store and reference things. I would like to put 2 themes into layers each other. Basically I want to use Black Quadrat as the main web experience and use Friendship Mediawiki Citizen Skin as the template for the wiki design. How can I upload these 2 templates/themes into Dreamweaver as a template to work out? Hi, recently I got interested in web design and wondered if someone knew a good website with HTML/CSS templates. So I'm not new to encoding, just HTML. What I want to do is create a personal website and host it on GitHub. I used to work for this guy who had things for their websites set up this way, they have a few .lbi files for things on the site and they change Dreamweaver's and the change spreads through the other files. That was about 4 years ago. He recently made me an offer to come back and work for it and I would really like to use something more modern than Dreamweaver. I have Code 2 on my Mac and I like it pretty much, but I'm open to suggestions. I suggest redoing the sites cause that they are old as shit, but we would still need some way to make a change once and that spreads through the pages where that "block" of code is. I haven't kept up to date much so forgive me if there's something out there that I'm not aware of.For what it's worth, it won't take me long to catch up and this will be a good excuse to do so (modernize your sites, i.e.).If I work with him, I'll probably post another thread asking for his advice on the latest/best technology I could use for the new version of the sites, but for now I'd like it have this question answered.) Ok so, I'm literally new to web design. design.
